New Training Modules this Fall

Northern Safety Solutions is committed to continuously improving every aspect of our business. This includes the development of new training modules for our clients. NSS's expertise is in health and safety; however, we have been listening to our clients and their workers, and there has been a large demand for "Conflict Resolution Training" for supervisors and managers. We are also developing "Conflict Resolution Training" for workers who deal with challenging customers in the workplace. Even though this falls under the Human Resources umbrella, we, at Northern Safety Solutions, with our in-house Human Resources expertise, are pleased to announce the following training modules that are in development and will be ready for launch in the fall of 2025.

- Conflict Resolution for Supervisors and Managers
- Conflict Resolution in the Workplace (for workers)

Northern Safety Solutions has not forgotten its roots. We have developed a new health and safety module that will be released in the fall of 2025.

- Food Handling Safety Training

We are pleased to offer these new training modules free of charge for our existing clients through their annual subscription.

Are you ready to take your health and safety program to the next level? Call us today and inquire about our incredible Workplace Management System, and how it can benefit your workers, your organization and keep you compliant with all Ministry of Labour, Immigration, Training and Skills Development initiatives and requirements.

Every one of our more than 30 online training modules can be accessed by anyone, either as single courses or in groups for your workplace. Each module features Canadian Development and Content (specific to provinces) and is provided via Northern Safety Solutions or Workplace Management Systems, both of which take pride in being Canadian companies!

The Ministry of Labour, Immigration, Training and Skills Development continues to focus on providing young and new workers with the necessary training and skills to carry out their jobs safely. Northern Safety Solutions is available to help you with the training and onboarding processes for these young and new workers. Let's ensure all our young and new workers make it home safely!
